When I first came to Japan, I was so surprised by Japanese convenience stores. Most of them are open twenty-four hours, seven days a week. I really like them. They have various food and drinks, such as onigiri, snacks, coffee, and more. We can also buy tickets for sports events and concerts. Japanese convenience stores are amazing!

However, I'm worried about one thing. Last week, I read a newspaper article about the owners of the convenience stores. It's really difficult for many of them to find enough workers, especially for late at night or early in the morning. The owners have to keep the stores open, so they can't take enough rest. That's a serious problem.

So I think Japanese convenience stores should be closed late at night and early in the morning. What do you think? Please tell me about your ideas.

3 解答

(例 1)

I agree with you. Owners work too hard, so they should have more rest.

(例 2)

I don't think so. People who work late at night can't get food or drinks.

(例 3)

I have a good idea. If new technology is used such as AI register, the owners don't need many workers.
